A Musical Tribute Honoring our
Guru Lalgudi Srimathi Brahmanandam

An exemplary violinist anchored in a strong vocal foundation, Anuradha Sridhar has been a stellar performer of Carnatic music for many decades. Today she is recognized as one of the best teachers of Carnatic music in the world. Anuradha is another gem in the illustrious Lalgudi family, whose lineage can be traced back to Saint Thyagaraja. She is the daughter and disciple of violin maestro Lalgudi Srimathi, and niece of the violin virtuoso Lalgudi Jayaraman. All through her musical journey that spans forty years, she has been recognized with awards and accolades by musical organizations worldwide for her inimitable performances and exceptional teaching skills.

In 1989, Anuradha established Trinity Center for Music. She has been a tireless teacher, performer and ambassador of Carnatic Music in the Bay Area. Following the footsteps of her forefathers, Anuradha has inspired and groomed several students to be professional musicians. Over the past 25 years Anuradha's disciples have been recognized with prizes and awards for their outstanding performances by prestigious organizations.

Guru Lalgudi Srimathi Brahmanandam and Guru Anuradha Sridhar have enriched the lives of many students through the gift of divine music. In 2015, Trinity Center for Music is celebrating its Silver Jubilee year. To commemorate this joyous occasion, grand musical concerts have been organized in different cities to pay tribute to Guru Lalgudi Srimathi Brahmanandam, the inspiration and leading light for the school.
